GALLINGER HOLDS THE FORT

Sole New Hampshire Representative in Active Service at Washington.

Washington, March 6.—Senator Jacob H. Gallinger is the sole congressional representative of New Hampshire in active service at the present time. So far as can be ascertained no other senator has ever enjoyed a similar distinction.

Senator Burnham and Representative Sullivan and Currier retired at the close of the sixty-second congress on Tuesday. Senator Burnham's successor is not yet elected on account of the existing deadlock. As the house of representatives is not in session, neither Mr. Rand nor Mr. Stevens has qualified by taking their oaths of office. This condition will continue to exist until April 1, when the extra session will convene as called by President Wilson, and the incoming members of congress will be sworn in, unless the New Hampshire deadlock is broken and a senator elected and sworn in before the senate adjourns within the next few days. On Senator Gallinger's broad shoulders rests the burden and responsibility of protecting New Hampshire's interests, so far as congressional matters are concerned.

THE WEATHER

Washington, March 6.—Forecast for Southern New England—Fair Friday; colder in east portion; Saturday increasing cloudiness and warmer; high northwest winds, diminishing.

Local forecast for Portsmouth and vicinity—Friday fair and colder; Saturday fair with slowly rising temperature; brisk to high westerly winds, diminishing Friday night and Saturday.

SUFFRAGISTS RECITE INSULTS

Senator Poindexter Declares Deliberate Attempt Was Made to Break Up Washington Parade

Washington, March 6.—Tales of indignities and affronts from the crowds and indifference and laughing comments from the police was recounted today before the senate committee that has begun an investigation into the alleged lack of protection given the suffrage pageant of Monday.

Women prominent in national affairs and a suffrage council, told of their harassed progress through surging crowds of men and boys, whom the police, they said made little effort to hold back. Their stories differed in detail because of the various viewpoints from which the Pennsylvania avenue march had been observed, but their statements as to the general attitude of the police were endorsed by Rear Admiral Van Rye, retired, and George P. Dowerman, librarian of the Carnegie library of Washington, who appeared as witnesses against the police department.

Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau of the department of commerce and labor, one of the marchers in the suffrage parade, said the few police she saw seemed to be merely standing in the front row of the spectators.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Warren, Ohio, in charge of the Ohio division of the parade, declared that crowds of "youngish men" surged in so close that the marchers could hardly walk two abreast; that good-natured drunken men pushed against the marchers' line without restraint by the police; and that the marchers were held up from their in sight did nothing to protect the procession.

Try To Dig Up Reasons

Congress had passed a special act directing the Washington police department to prevent any interference with the suffrage procession. In the questions put to the women witnesses today, Senator Jones, Dillingham and Pomeroy tried to secure definite information as to why the protection had been so inadequate, and as to the number of police on hand, and the manner in which they acted toward the women marchers.

Well-dressed women, many of them leaders in national suffrage affairs, packed the committee room where the hearings were held, and from their ranks came the witnesses, who were called to the stand under the direction of Miss Alice Paul.

In a statement furnished to the committee at its opening, Maj. Richard Sylvester, superintendent of police declared his department had given the parade all the protection it could, with the limited number of policemen available; and that the disorder on the streets was due to the breaking of cables along the route, and the unruly character of the crowd.

Bursts of laughter came frequently as women told of their experiences. Mrs. Upton said there were some elderly women in the Ohio division, and she was afraid a good-natured drunken man would fall against them.

"So we all hurried and got past and

SEVERAL HURT IN STRIKE RIOTS

Disorder Continues in Boston as Ranks of Clothing Makers Are Swelled.

Boston, March 7.—Two men were injured and ten arrests were made during disturbances yesterday in the garment workers' and cloak and skirt makers' strikes. To the 12,000 already on strike, including the 3000 cloak and skirt makers who went out yesterday, over 1000 alteration hands, it was declared last night, will be added.

Today formal charges will be filed with Police Commissioner O'Meara against three East Boston policemen for alleged "discrimination" and "non-protection" of strikers in the recent East Boston riot.

A man named Kennon, employed in the office of S. S. Shepard, an electrical contractor, in a Bedford street building, received an ugly scalp wound when he was set upon and beaten while carrying a stenographer from a garment shop at 114-116 Bedford street to the Essex street tunnel station.

The attack upon Kennon drew a crowd of several hundred into Bedford street, and it was some time before the police could scatter them.

There were several skirmishes between alleged strike pickets, strike-breakers and the police in Washington, Essex, Beach, Kingston and Bennett streets and Harrison avenue through the day, especially when the shops closed in the late afternoon, but the inclement weather and the increased details of police from outlying stations made it the quietest day in the strike thus far.

AWARD CONTRACT.

New York Firm to Build the Bridge to Kittery.

It is given out at the navy yard today that the contract for the construction of the combined highway and railway bridge from the navy yard to Kittery has finally been awarded in the building firm of Squire & Trist of New York city. The bids were opened over a month ago in Washington and other than that of the New York firm was a proposal from the firm of C. M. Leach & Co., of Boston. The amount appropriated for the work by Congress was $125,000; of this $8000 was allowed for the construction of the bridge proper and piers. The remainder $117,000 will go for the purchase of land by condemnation proceedings and the approach to the bridge on both ends. The firm of Squire & Trist have previously done considerable work here in the construction of the naval prison, coal pocket, and boat storage building. It is expected that work will start on April 1.

WASHINGTON TRIP.

High School Seniors Will Start for Capital March 29.

The class of 1913, Portsmouth High school, will leave this city Saturday afternoon, March 29, for the annual trip to Washington. The members of the class will leave for Fall River and go by boat to New York city. They will take the Pennsylvania State railroad direct to Washington, where they will spend four days. On the way back a day will be spent in Philadelphia and New York, the party arriving in Portsmouth on Sunday afternoon. Ten members of the class will make the trip, but several members of last year's class will accompany them. Principal and Mrs. J. Wilson Hobbs will chaperone the students.

LIST OF OFFICERS.

Pascataqua Congregational Club Held Election.

At the annual meeting of the Pascataqua Congregational Club recently the following officers were elected: Rev. Charles H. Percival of Rochester, president; Dr. E. T. Fairchild of Durham, Frank E. Leavitt of Portsmouth, vice presidents; Rev. Walter A. Morgan of Dover, secretary; Miss Mattie O. Barrell of York Corner, Me., treasurer; Deacon Joseph W. Merrill of Exeter and Rev. Lucius H. Thayer of Portsmouth, executive committee; John Porter Weeks of Greenland, Hon. Albert Demeritt of Durham, Rev. William Sandbrook of Salmon Falls, Mrs. Valentine Mathis of Dover, Rev. Myron Dickey of Kennebunk, Me., nominating committee; Rev. Asa M. Parker of Somersworth, Rev. Frank L. Garfield of York Village, Me., outlook committee.

REBELS AWAIT FEDERAL TROOPS

Rebels in Mexico Are Destroying Railroads and Cutting Telegraph Communication With Outside

El Paso, Tex., March 6.—With the exception of Chihuahua declaring neutrality toward the Sonora revolt, the rebellion in the western border state today awaited the entrance of federal troops.

Rallying under the constitutionalist banner and proclaiming states rights, the new rebels late today not only destroyed the railway north and south of El Paso, but cut all telegraph wires. This effected the most severe censorship from the state capital.

Following the decision of the state authorities to denounce Huerta's government groups of state rebels tonight threatened the posts of Agua Prieta, and Nogales on the Arizona border.

"The matter does not directly interest me," said Gen. Pascual Orozco Jr. today when news reached his camp below Juarez of the Sonora state upel commander-in-chief has received no riding against Huerta. The former request from the provisional president to take the field against the Sonora state troops as reported yesterday. Such a request will meet with refusal by nearly 1500 troops under Orozco's control.

Orozco made clear his stand toward the provisional government at Mexico City, declaring he only accepts Huerta in event the land grant promises of the Madero revolution will be kept. Orozco reiterates his promises that he will keep his forces in indefinite armistice.

It also is denied by the rebel commander that any demand has been made under the Huerta party for large sums of money with which to reimburse the northern rebels for their struggle against Madero. If Colonel Cordova, Orozco's embassy in Mexico City made such a demand it was unauthorized, Orozco says.

TEN THOUSAND MEN

They Have Been Ordered Against the Rebels in the North

Mexico City, March 6.—Ten thousand and seasoned troops are to be placed under the command of Brig. Gen. Samuel Garcia Cuellar, the former chief of President Porfirio Diaz's staff and hero of the battle of Casas Grandes early in the Madero revolution, who has been ordered to move north against the rebels at an early date. Two thousand men in addition to those already dispatched are preparing to proceed to Coahuila to give combat to the rebels under Venustiano Carranza, the rebel governor. According to the latest information reaching the government, Carranza now has 8000 men and 6 cannon. His forces are spread over a large extent of territory, from Lamospos throughout the eastern half of Coahuila.

A portion of his forces has taken possession of La Rabla Ranch, the property of General Trevino, now governor of the state of Nuevo Leon. The government is moving troops into Monclova and Mesquite where the main body of the Carranzists are said to be and is daily expecting engagements.

VETERAN FIREMEN HAVE GOOD TIME

Music, Speech Making and Clam Chowder Combine to Make Social Evening.

To express it mildly, there was something doing every minute at the rooms of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's Association on Thursday evening. There were nearly one hundred of the members and a few invited guests present to enjoy the festivities. During the evening the famous life and drum corps of the organization under Director William T. Betton rendered up-to-date music and an orchestra composed of Canetti, Carter, Betton and Meati also contributed to the musical program.

The Association chief had prepared an appetizing chowder with all the fixings, and when the summons came to partake of this dish, all did ample justice to it.

At the post prandial exercises William J. Gallagher acted as toast master and remarks were made by Ex-Chief Engineer John D. Randall, Ex-Assistant Engineer Joseph W. Akerman, President Horace W. Gray of the Association, Frank Osgood, Councilman E. Oscar Pinkham, Edward H. Fuller, Ex-Alderman Eben H. Blaisdell, Herbert B. Dow, Elsie B. Newman, John Foden, John S. Parker.

During the remarks musical selections were interspersed by the drum corps and N. J. Calise rendered several songs that received well merited applause. It was a late hour when the assemblage broke up, well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The success of the affair was in a great measure due to the following efficient committee: Horace W. Gray, chairman; Charles F. Shuffelberg, John Foden, John F. Kennedy, Joseph Rowbotham, Wallace Gove, George W. Hersey, Thomas Hittelle, Charles W. Hanson, George McGovern, Charles H. Fode, Captain Samuel Snow, Arthur Haddock, Frank Osgood. The committee on music was Charles F. Shuffelberg, William Bishop and Frank Turner.

EXTRADITION PAPERS ARE SECURED FOR CORPORAL GUENTHER

County Solicitor E. L. Guphill was in Concord on Thursday and secured from Governor Parker the final extradition papers for Corporal Guenther, U. S. M. C., of the U. S. S. Southey, who is wanted in this city for robbery.

The allegation is that Guenther broke a window of the Blankenberg pawn shop on Penhallow street with a brick and reaching through stole several watches and rings and then fled to the navy yard. He was arrested at the request of the local police and when searched some of the stolen property was found on him.

The navy department was asked to turn the man over for trial but with the usual red tape it was decided to ask the authorities to get extradition papers. County Solicitor Guphill at first had to get them from the state of Maine and then honored by the state of New Hampshire and now they are secured, a formal demand will be made on the Commandant of the yard for the surrender of Guenther, and he will be turned over to Sheriff Spinner and brought here for trial. There was another marine with Guenther at the time of the break but the evidence connecting him with the actual break was not sufficient.

CLERKS OBJECT

New York—Several hundred clerks employed by stock exchange met at 42 Broadway yesterday afternoon to arrange for an organized protest against the proposed increase of the state tax on stock transfers from $2 to $1 a hundred shares.

It was announced that 2000 employees have enrolled in the movement. A committee was appointed to go to Albany on March 12 to protest at the public hearing on the bills. The committee consists of James L. Van, chairman; J. P. Lyon, secretary; Arthur Sumner, Joseph Fitzsimmons, Duncan McGregor, Martin O'Neill, John P. McKay, Charles Burbank and John M. Clarke.

A mass of literature was given out to those present, and it was decided that each man enrolled should send a letter to his assemblyman and state senator protesting against the proposed tax. The letter was drawn up by a committee and copies of it were given to all those present. It contains a number of reasons why the assemblyman or senator should not vote for the pending bills.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE

Manchester, N. H., March 6.—Making the remark, "I'm going out to get some air," Albert Johnson, a Swede, 23 years of age, having a home in Lynn, Mass., walked upon the roof of the Stark Hotel building at an early hour this morning and, standing near the eaves, cut his throat with a razor. His body fell to the ground, three stories below. Workmen discovered the body and notified the police. The body was placed in a morgue.

Johnson had been employed as a carpenter during the last three weeks in the roundhouse of the Boston and Maine Railroad. He roomed with Gustaf Johnson by the Stark Hotel. He is said to have a wife in Duluth, Minn., from whom he had been separated for some time.

TARIFF ALONE TO BE CONSIDERED AT EXTRA SESSION

Washington, March 6.—President Wilson was strongly urged by House leaders today to use his influence for, and agree to a plan which would confine Congress, at the special session called for April 1, to the enactment of tariff legislation and the passage of the two appropriation bills that fall in the closing days of the last Congress.

The House leaders want to pass the tariff bills as quickly as possible, send them to the Senate, and then, instead of taking up other legislation, such as currency reform, have the House adjourn for periods of three days at a time. Their object in this, it was said, was to have the Senate the only body doing business so that the eyes of the Nation could be focused upon it and attention would not be diverted to other subjects.

In the opinion of some House leaders, this would enable President Wilson and the Democrats in the Senate, through their own power, and the force of public attention, to get such tariff legislation as the Democratic platform declared to be necessary.

Those callers who talked with the President about the plan of the House leaders declared they believed he had not made up his mind, but thought he considered currency legislation and anti-trust legislation, two important subjects which should not be delayed. Some of them said, however, that Mr. Wilson realized that in dealing with three such important subjects the intricacies of the legislative situation should be considered.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS' REUNION

Supt. James N. Pringle of the public schools, who returned on Wednesday from the National Convention of School Superintendents, at Philadelphia, met all of the former superintendents of this city at the convention. That is, with the exception of Mr. Morse who has now retired from school work and is located in Porto Rico. They all met in reunion at a luncheon and there were present Mr. J. C. Simpson, Hon. Henry C. Morrison, Ernest L. Silver, J. A. MacDougall and Supt. J. N. Pringle.

OLD ENGLISH DOG CARTS.

The employment of dogs to draw visitors up the Jungfrau reminds us that there are probably people still living who recollect when dogs drew carts in England. These original dog-carts, which were suppressed by law in the middle of the last century, were largely used by costermongers and the humbler members of the fancy for Sunday outings. The dogs employed were large animals, of mongrel breed, with a strain of the old English mastiff. A twenty or thirty mile run in and out was nothing to them, and they kept up their strength on the journey with a scanty allowance of bread soaked in beer.—London Chronicle.

OLD BRIDAL PAIRS

A wedding at Woburn between a couple whose ages are respectively 75 and 79, suggests the question of the greatest age at which men and women have married. An entry in the parish register of Greenwich sounds like the record, for it tells how in 1655 John Cooper, aged 108, wed Margaret Thomas, a spinster of 80. After this it is not surprising to find the death of "Ould Cooper" recorded the following year. Greenwich, too, can claim another elderly bridegroom in William Keith Hall, who was born there in 1788, and did not marry until 1870.—London Chronicle.

WARSHIP'S COOK HELD FOR MURDER

Henry Taylor, cabin cook on the battleship Rhode Island, was held on a charge of murder by Judge Ely in the Boston municipal court yesterday for killing George Taylor, a porter, in a lodging house at 29 Claremont Park Tuesday night. Hearing was set for March 10, and Taylor was remanded to the Charles street jail without bail.

Mr. Morton Critically Ill.

While not surprised, perhaps, considering that he is almost a nonagenarian, the people of these United States, regardless of party affiliations, will hear with profound regret of the serious, probably fatal, illness of Hon. Levi Parsons Morton at his New York residence. From his boyhood days in Vermont, Mr. Morton's has been a life of ceaseless and exceptionally honorable activities and there's no man of vast wealth, living in this community today who has used the means at his command more wisely or beneficially than he and here and there all over this broad land may be found scores upon scores of people whom he has directly, but quietly, aided in the strenuous battle of life; many a man whom he has cheerfully assisted out of the slough of despond; many a man and woman ready to rise up and call him blessed because of his countless benefactions. In all of his cheery beneficence Mr. Morton never questioned an applicant for his bounty how he came to be down, perhaps out also, nor what his political or sectarian leanings might be. Sufficient for him to know that a fellow being was in distress, perhaps through no fault of his own, and when he wiped away the tears of the distressed he made sure that they were tears of joyful appreciation, not those of sadness, and of him it may be truly said that in his case particularly the left hand knew not what the right hand did. In every relation of life, mercantile, diplomatic or denominational, Mr. Morton's name was ever a synonym for fair dealing, incorruptibility and executive capacity, and if any man could be honestly called one of God's noblemen Levi P. Morton filled the bill. In private life he was ever one of the most lovable and unostentatious of men, and in public service whether as our representative in France, Vice President of the United States or Governor of the great state of New York every duty was discharged uprightly and with rare general acceptance. There are many other good men in public and private life, but not one the superior of Levi Parsons Morton.

Germany's Restless Kaiser.

At a time when the pot of socialism in Europe, particularly in Germany, threatens to boil over at any moment what is Emperor William doing? Is he trying by gentle methods and the adoption of measures looking to the improvement of living conditions among the masses, to check the rising socialistic tide and win to himself and the ancient house of Hohenzollern the great German people who love their fatherland and are willing to make all reasonable sacrifices in order to build up and strengthen its institutions? Not to any great extent is Wilhelm II making progress in this desirable direction. On the contrary this self-styled "War lord," at once the greatest crowned fanatic and biggest blusterer in the world's history, puts on his war togs and calls, through his ministers and legislative officials, for $150,000,000 to meet extraordinary war expenses this year. This will mean, also, vastly increased taxation, to be levied upon an already over-burdened people and a withdrawal of thousands more of the sturdiest young fellows in Germany from peaceful pursuits and putting them inside German uniforms. What is this cranky monarch afraid of, anyway? Germany is already one of the strongest military powers in the world but while professing a love of peace the German Emperor seems to be preparing for war. What wonder that German manufacturers and merchants are kicking, and kicking hard! Before William shall have succeeded in wrecking Germany he should be visited by a commission de lunatico inquirendo.

Indiana In the Saddle.

With John W. Kern, of Indiana, as the floor leader in the Senate the democrats of the middle West seem to be more than satisfied, especially those of Indiana. With Vice President Marshall in the chair and Senator Kern the floor leader, Indiana has furnished a pretty strong team for general legislative work. In selecting Kern, bearing in mind their rather slender voting preponderance, the democratic senators did the best thing possible for themselves, and if they use their opportunity wisely they will not only be of great assistance to the President but in an emergency should it become necessary to rebuke unwise democratic senatorial performers, such a team could surely count upon republican support, especially in matters concerning the tariff.

Again the Castellane Scandal.

If there ever was a greater cad on either side of the Atlantic than Anna Gould's first husband, the alleged Count Boni de Castellane, we have yet to hear of his performances. When this alleged count reached the end of the rope of irregular living, and was properly divorced by his wife he got only what he deserved in full measure and running over. This volatile Frenchman was utterly incapable of appreciating a good wife, who gave to him most generously of her private fortune, and seemed to take delight in public exhibitions of his fickle indecency. But this representative titled scallawag was not downed

Plundering of cannon and the roar of cheers from myriad throats signaled the actual moment of President Wilson's inauguration into the highest office of the land. It was the most impressive national event for many years. Washington was literally jammed to its utmost capacity, and at the scene of the final ceremony in front of the capitol building thousands upon thousands surged and swarmed. The crowd which witnessed this scene was the greatest of all inaugurations in the history of the country. Over 400,000 visitors were in the city. President Wilson took the oath of office facing Chief Justice White, with his hand resting on a Bible. Hundreds of spectators, like human ants, swarmed upon the cornices and ledges of the capitol, looking down upon the scene, while every available inch of the plaza in which stood the inaugural stand was occupied by the crowd.

Divorced, and at once set to work to procure legal annulment of his marriage in order doubtless, more to wreak revenge upon his former wife than with any immediate expectation of marrying again. After once deciding the marriage legal, however, the Rola, a papal court recently decreed annulment of the marriage and the Princess de Sagan, nee Anna Gould, has already entered an appeal for the sake of her children, she says. Certain it is that when Anna Gould was married to the French puppet she made a sorry mess of it, for which she would seem to have made ample atonement no matter what the final decision.

Prudent Presidential Precedent.

Thus early President Wilson has established, for all time it is to be hoped, a precedent which, if of earlier date, would have saved infinite worry for the occupant of the White House. He has told place hunters in dignified, even "academic," phrase, that not one of them will be admitted to his presence unless directly and distinctly invited so to do by the President himself. He goes farther in saying to the noisy and hungry brood that if they do not care to await a personal summons from him they can make known their wants to the heads of departments—and he might have added provided they were able to run the gauntlet leading to the private office of each. In his quiet, but determined, way President Wilson, in thus taking the office-seeking bull by the horns, so to speak, will have the commendation of every right-minded citizen.

Looking backward less than twenty years and considering the places in our political history held at that time by republicans of prominence who are still active in the nation's life as United States senators, the principal ones are two, only two in number, and both are New England men—Gallinger of New Hampshire and Lodge of Massachusetts. Each in his chosen sphere of action has attained an exalted height and it is to be hoped that the life of each may be spared for the attainment of still greater honors. There are other republican senators who have been most favorably in the public eye for many years but we can recall none exactly contemporary in prominence with Senators Gallinger and Lodge.

A Good Sport.

By his unvarying charm of manner, his rare judgment and tact, not less than by his true sportsmanlike qualities, Sir Thomas J. Lipton won his way long ago into American hearts and his announcement that, next year, he will send Shamrock number four across the Atlantic for another try for the America's cup reveals clearly the never-say-die spirit of one of the best and most level-headed sportsmen of the twentieth century. His last try for the cup ten years ago with Shamrock III and his defeat caused no abatement in his cup-hunting zeal and sport-loving Americans will give him a cordial welcome. Win or lose we all like Sir Thomas and if he should "lift the cup" this time we will applaud him to the echo.

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

State Manufacturers Form Association for Closer Relations and Protection.

Some sixty odd manufacturers in the State met at Concord, on Friday, Feb. 28, and formed the New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association. The object of the Association will be to form mutual benefits and closer relations between the manufacturers in the State. The officers elected were as follows:

President, J. Thurman Upham; first vice-president, W. D. Smart; second

THE LESSONS OF THE FIREMEN'S CONTROVERSY

(From the Railway Age Gazette)

The firemen have won over the managers of the Eastern railways in the controversy about the way their differences shall be arbitrated. The railways made the firemen three propositions. First, they offered them advances in wages relatively the same as those awarded to the engineers by the board of eminent citizens that arbitrated the engineers' case. Second, they offered to submit the controversy to arbitration by a board similar to that which arbitrated the engineers' case. Third, they offered to submit the matter to arbitration by a board composed of two representatives of labor, two representatives of the railways and two disinterested persons. All these propositions the firemen rejected. They offered the railways the alternative of arbitration under the Erdman act or a strike.

That the firemen have won is not because their side of the case was more skillfully handled than that of the railways. It was not. Never, we believe, has the railway side of any labor controversy been handled better than was done in this case by Elshu Lee and his associates. The firemen won because they had the greater brute force and the greater disposition to use it regardless of consequences.

The result contains three lessons which it behooves the people of the United States to learn.

First, the physical power of the railway brotherhood exceeds that of the railway managers. Of course, the railways could lock the employees out, just as the employees could strike; but the railways have much more to lose by suspension of operations.

Second, the brotherhoods occupy a better strategic position than the railway managements do. This is because the managers have had many collisions with public opinion in which they have been worsted; and it has taught them that in all their acts they must respect the rights of the public. One of these rights is to have transportation maintained without interruption. The employees fully appreciate the position the managers are in. They have not had similar collisions with public opinion in which they have been worsted. Therefore they have not been taught to respect the rights of the public, and some of their organizations do not respect them. In this instance and in many others, they have shown that when regard for the rights of the public becomes incompatible with resort to a strike to secure what they demand, they will trample on the rights of the public and declare the strike. They recognize the responsibility of the managers to the public. They do not accept any responsibility on their own part to the public. Naturally this gives them a great advantage over the managers.

The third lesson which the public needs to learn flows naturally from the first two. It is that the public should adopt some means for protecting its rights against those who have both the power and the disposition to trample on them. The existing law, as the developments in this and many other cases have indicated, is insufficient to

MISSING GIRLS NOT FAR AWAY

Little Ones Quickly Found Happily Employed Looking into Drug Store Windows.

What is undoubtedly the greatest thing giving away of dolls that New England has ever seen goes merrily on. The drug stores where the little girls are made happy have been very busy and the supply is getting low. Some of the druggist rivals of Santa Claus have made window displays and crowds of children stand in front of them for hours at a time.

Each doll has three extra dresses and hats to match. The colonial costumes are in pink and green with white trimming; blue and white; red, blue and green with ermine trimming; and yellow and white respectively.

A blue school dress with white trim, a blue and white sailor suit with white leather belt and big buckle; a white embroidered dress with a brilliant red jacket; and a magnificent pink party dress trimmed with blue ribbons, white lace and pink roses constitute the modern costumes.

Black shoes with square buckles and black stockings, appropriately complete the colonial effect. The modern dolls have white button shoes and white stockings.

The dolls all have golden curly hair, blue or brown eyes, and peach-bloomed complexions.

Any little girl can go to any dealer whose name appears below and buy a bottle of Minard's Liniment, "King of the Pain" for 25 cents. As long as there are any dolls left the dealer will give them away to purchasers of the Liniment.

Little girls who are tardy or whose parents have that very bad habit of putting things off until the last minute can get a doll just like those on display and the three extra dresses and hats to match them by sending to them Minard's Liniment Company a wrapper from any size bottle of Minard's Liniment; but, with the wrapper must go a dime or five two-cent stamps.

Unless one is familiar with the sure passing merits of Minard's Liniment, and understands that a trial of this 50-year old reliable family remedy invariably develops an enthusiastic and expert verdict, it is hard to see how the dolls can be given away by the druggists.

Minard's Liniment is a wonderful external remedy. Even in the worst cases of rheumatic aches and pains, sore muscles, tired, aching feet and limbs, neuralgia, stiff joints and soreness resulting from colds, sprains, bruises and strains it gives almost instant relief and permanent benefit.

Among the dealers who are giving away the dolls this week are:

protect the rights of the public. There was nothing in the Erdman act to prevent the firemen from striking and they doubtless would have struck and brought down on the public all the direful consequences, if the managers had not yielded. Furthermore, there is nothing in the Erdman act to insure that mediation and arbitration under it will result in fair adjustments of wages and conditions of employment. It is just as essential in the long run, that railway labor controversies shall be settled on a right basis as that they shall be settled at all. If wages and conditions of employment are made unreasonable, the cost of rendering the service of transportation will be made unreasonable and the rates that the public will have to pay for it will be made unreasonable.

The managers showed great forbearance and great public spirit in yielding, to prevent a strike—a public spirit strikingly contrasting with the selfish and reckless contempt for public rights and the public welfare displayed by Mr. Carter and his associates. It might have been better for the public, in the long run, had the strike come; for then the demonstration of the need for additional legislation regarding the labor situation on railways would have been complete.

AN INTERESTING SIDELIGHT ON THE WILSON INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

To the Editor of the Herald—We are passing through the season of the "honeymoon" of President Wilson's administration. The critic must be very lenient in his judgment of the language and the spirit of the inaugural address.

That it is the product of a skilled writer is apparent. Each sentence is fashioned with due regard to felicity of expression. It reads well. One feels it to be a rhetorical success.

It is easy enough to say that the President's words are those of a college professor rather than of a practical man of affairs. He tells the people that new methods are to be adopted; that we face a "new age of right and opportunity." It is a pretty serious indictment that he draws against the republican administration of the past few years. Some of his listeners may well express surprise, when they learn from this high source that "the nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil."

Are we to understand from this strong language that the government is "debauched" during the Taft administration? If such is the new President's meaning, he will undoubtedly be called upon at an early day to file a bill of specifications.

The truth is, the address is sophomoric. It is full of generalities, touched off with a glow of imagination. This sort of thing is well enough in an inaugural address. The country will not take President Wilson seriously, thus far.

Our friends, the democratic leaders, must be puzzled at the glimpse they are getting of the President's program. It is to be accomplished, not in the old-fashioned way, under party leadership. The nation, it seems, is to use the democratic party for the purpose. Just what this means is not very clear.

If we read between the lines, we discover that it is President Wilson himself who is going to start this era of better things; and that in the process the nation will use the democratic party as a passive instrument in the hands of Woodrow Wilson.

The President, it is true, points out a few particulars in which changes are to be effected. He specifies the tariff, the banking and currency system, scientific farming, conservation of natural resources, sanitary laws, pure-food laws and laws for improving the conditions of labor. This would seem to be a sufficient list to begin with.

In these fields, the President, using the democratic party as a means for carrying forward his work, solemnly dedicates himself to the task of reform. He is a progressive of progressive.

The address sounds a note like that of a voice crying in the wilderness that men should repent. It would not be fair to hint that it sounds like the outcry of a fanatic, or of a socialist; but, to speak the plain truth, it comes all too dangerously near it.

Yet, as we remarked at the beginning, the present is a season for the gentlest kind of criticism. We prefer to relegate the inaugural address to the limbo of forgotten documents, and wall not without anxiety, to see what practical methods President Wilson, with William J. Bryan at his side, shall recommend to Congress.

Every American citizen, whatever may be his political faith, ought sincerely to wish the new President a safe and successful administration. If President Wilson can bring the country into anything like the better condition that his imagination has pictured, it will be indeed a happy consummation. We wonder how the inaugural address will read four years from now!

RAILROAD NOTES

The 8.16 morning train from Wolfboro to Boston was forty minutes late this morning having been held up by a freight that got stalled on the Conway branch at Milton.

The Boston & Maine railroad has made an appropriation of $80,000 to meet the cost of the proposed enlargement of the freight yard of the corporation in Concord.

The enlargement will greatly increase the facilities of the road for handling freight at this point and will do much to expedite train movements in both directions.

To date the snow plows of the Boston & Maine road have not been off the storage tracks for service during the winter. This may have happened before but if it did, it is beyond the memory of the oldest railroad man.

"Progress Road No. 35, Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America," is the name of the new organization of signalmen of the Boston Elevated.

For some time the elevated signalmen have been connected with the New Haven local Pioneer No. 5.

At a meeting yesterday they installed the following officers: Chief Signalman, H. W. Hart; Vice Chiefs, A. J. Short and C. H. Yale; Recording Secretary, J. P. Murphy; Financial Secretary, C. A. Goodwin; Treasurer, O. Handley and Chaplain P. DeCarra.

GREEKS TAKE JANINA AND 32,000 PRISONERS

Victory Result of Three Months Hammering With Big Guns.

Athens, Greece, March 6.—The Turkish fortress of Janina, the key to the possession of the province of Epirus, with its garrison of 32,000 men, surrendered to the Greek Army today, after a defense which forms one of the most brilliant episodes of the Balkan war.

The surrender was preceded by a fierce bombardment lasting without cessation two days and two nights. Every available gun, including a number of heavy howitzers lent by the Serbian artillery, was brought to bear by the Greeks upon the fort defending the beleaguered city.

No fewer than 30,000 shells were fired from the Greek guns during the first day's bombardment. Gradually the Turkish batteries at Janina, Manolika, Saloni and elsewhere were silenced under the sustained rain of projectiles.

The Greek commanders, by a feint, led the Turks to believe that their attack would be made from the right and as soon as the attention of the defenders had been attracted, the Greeks hurled large bodies of infantry on the Turkish left. The Ottoman troops, utterly surprised, fell back in disorder.

The battles on the heights of Blazani, which had been the industry of the defense, were unable to stand the storm of shells and had been put out of action by 11 yesterday morning.

Turkish Flight Becomes General

The Greeks pushed their forward movement during the afternoon and occupied the Turkish batteries on the Sakini and Elaz hills, capturing all the guns and 116 artillerymen. Then the Greek battalions gradually deployed upon the plain in front of the city itself and the Turkish flight became general.

Whole detachments succumbed to the panic and joined in a mad race into the city, with the city, with the Greek troops in hot pursuit, almost to the walls.

With all the defending batteries in the hands of the Greeks and the Helend soldiers at the gates of Janina, Essad Pasha, the Turkish commander, at 6 this morning, sent messenger under a flag of truce to Crown Prince Constantine of Greece, announcing the surrender of the city and all the troops under his command.

The fall of the stronghold was announced by the Crown Prince to the Greek War Office in the following dispatch:

"Euboea (Greek headquarters), 6 a. m. The Greek Army having occupied the entire left front of the city of Janina and also Blazani and Gostizze, having been surrounded by our troops, Essad Pasha has just informed me that his troops surrender as prisoners of war.

"I will send you shortly details of the great victory of our gallant army." With enthusiasm reigned in the streets of Athens on the announcement of the news. All the houses were decorated with flags and excited people thronged the thoroughfares, singing the Greek National anthem, while joyous peals rang out from every church steeple in the capital.

The 32,000 prisoners comprised the whole of the original garrison, and many of the refugees from Monastiri and other places.

The fortress of Janina was entered at 9 this morning by three squadrons of Greek cavalry, under the command of Gen. Soma.

Siege Began Late in October.

The Greek advance on Janina began late in October and the Turks retired rapidly before them. Operations round the fortress opened about the beginning of December and continued with varying success, even during the period of the armistice, in which the Greeks never formally agreed. Several of the attacking forces fell before the Greek assaults, and the attack on the principal fortifications was gradually pressed home.

The Turkish garrison possessed 16 guns, 86 of which were large fortress artillery and the remainder field pieces. These were distributed among the forts at Elazani to the south; Durat, to the southwest; Sakotiza, to the west and the island, to the northwest.

It was not known until this morning how many Turkish troops were in the city, the estimate herebefore varying from 1,000 to 20,000 men. The population numbered 22,000, most of them Greeks.

The fortifications which had at one time been strong, were quite antiquated and could not resist modern cannon, with which the Greeks were well supplied.

Proceeding throughout the siege had been fairly plentiful, as Janina is a center of the grain trade in the eastern provinces of European Turkey.

1/2 Less Cottolene is required than Butter or Lard

That's simply because Cottolene is richer than either lard or butter. It makes better food, too—food free from grease and indigestion—food that is light and crisp and flaky—food that digests easily and does you good. Cottolene contains no hog fat. It is a vegetable product—made from choicest cotton oil.

Cottolene

Nature made it, and Nature knows what is good for human stomachs. Don't cry any more about the high cost of living until you have practised the economy which the use of Cottolene will enable.

Discard lard altogether, discard butter, except for your table, and use Cottolene for all shortening and frying. The results, as well as the economy, will make you thankful for having read this advertisement.

Recipe

GINGER DROPS
Cream one-half cup of Cottolene with one-half cup of sugar and add one cup of molasses. Beat into this two and one-half cups of flour sifted with a teaspoon each of salt and cinnamon, also a tablespoon of ginger. Add two well beaten eggs and three-fourths of a cup of boiling water, in which two teaspoons of soda have been dissolved. Bake in muffin pans in very moderate oven. These are particularly tender and delicious and may be served as individual puddings with sweetened cream.

FREIGHTER HAS A TOUGH OCEAN TRIP

Philadelphia, March 6. WITH her decks smashed, lifeboats afloat in and a portion of her machinery disabled, the British steamer Rahyl, which sailed for Philadelphia from Norfolk, Navy, on Jan. 5, reached this port yesterday. All days were consumed in the trip across the ocean, which usually takes less than 30 days.

"For the greater portion of the way we lost sight of land," said Capt. Davis. "The steamer's propellers were useless on account of the terrific storms which raged. Twice we were compelled to abandon our course and run for ports to replenish a depleted coal supply, during most of the voyage it was necessary to pump out on the deck."

According to Capt. Davis the voyage was the worst he ever made. On Jan. 18 the vessel put into Stornaway, England, for coal, and when within 600 miles of Halifax on Feb. 1 she was compelled to turn and run back to Royal in the Azores, from which port she sailed on Feb. 1.

ALL TRAINMEN MUST PASS EXAMINATIONS

A new book of rules which will affect many of the employees of the Boston and Maine railroad, has been issued to take effect April first. The order requires an examination of all trainmen, engineers, towermen, telegraph operators and yard men. All men who took the examination in 1909 will be exempt, but all others will have to take the examination no matter how long in the service and all new men will have to take the examination before they receive their appointments. This order is in line with the general law oversight of all the employees of the road who handle the trains, which is being maintained by the officials of the road for the past several months especially.

GEN. WOOD STILL CHIEF OF STAFF

Washington, March 6.—Secretary of War Garrison today ordered Major General Leonard Wood to continue under his original designation as chief of staff of the army until further orders. The purpose of Secretary Garrison's action is to enable President Wilson to have time fully to consider the question of a permanent designation. Under the army regulations the designation of Major General Leonard Wood as chief of staff of the army expired at midnight. Major General Wood was selected by President Wilson as grand marshal of the inaugural parade. This appointment, however, carries no significance as to whether or not he will be retained permanently as chief of staff. There is an element in Congress strongly hostile to Major General Wood. This group is led by Representative Hay of Virginia, chairman of the House Military Committee. Were it not for the fact that the army legislation of the last two years has been marked by the intense opposition of Hay to all the reforms proposed by General Wood there would be little doubt in Washington about his retention as chief of staff. His service in that office has been notable for many reforms in the administration and organization of the army. He is credited with having done more to vivify the military organization and to clear out a great mass of deadwood of administrative routine than any other officer who has held the position in many years. He has also left a reputation for the improvement of the defenses of the country and the better preparedness for war by means of a military reserve of trained citizen soldiers. Though opposed to the end by Representative Hay, the reserve idea of General Wood was adopted by Congress last summer in a modified form. In view of the relations between General Wood and Representative Hay as far as military legislation is concerned many find it difficult to believe that he will be retained as chief of staff. The names of Major General William H. Carter, now commanding the second division mobilized at Galveston, Tex., and of Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Eastern Department at New York, are being most prominently mentioned as possible successors to General Wood.

BILLS OF INTEREST BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Concord, Mar. 6.—Representative Johnson of ward 8, Manchester, has introduced a bill to the house which provides that no building, three or more stories in height, any part of which is used or occupied above the second story as a hotel, transient lodging house, schoolhouse, orphan asylum, theatre hall for public assembly, factory, mill or workshop shall be let, leased or occupied for such purposes unless provided with a steel or wrought iron balcony and stairway fire escape, attached to the outer wall in such a manner and place as to render egress from the building safe and easy.

The bill also provides that if the building is of a length exceeding one hundred and fifty feet, it shall be provided with an additional fire escape for every additional one hundred and fifty feet or fraction thereof.

It is also provided that every building in which laborers are employed shall be provided with sufficient means of escape in case of fire by means of more than one egress, which shall at all times be kept free from obstructions and ready for immediate use; that every door shall open outward and be kept unlocked during working hours, except that the provisions of the act shall not apply to a factory building that is adequately equipped with automatic sprinklers and stairways enclosed with wall of fireproof material or other means of exit duly approved by the building inspector, chief of fire department or board of selectmen.

A bill introduced by Representative Allen of Haverhill "to prevent the increase of drunkenness in no-license cities and towns, and for the better enforcement of the prohibitory law," was the means of starting a lively debate on the floor of the house yesterday.

The act provides that it shall be unlawful for any person convicted of drunkenness to have in his possession or control any liquor within a period of twelve months after his conviction, either on his person or about his home or premises, and provides a penalty of not less than $10 or more than $50 and imprisonment in the house of correction for not less than thirty or more than ninety days, and a second offense a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100, and imprisonment for not less than sixty days or more than 6 months. Mr. Allen in supporting the bill said

TO PLAY BALL NOT CRITICISE

Chicago, March 6.—President B. B. Johnson of the American League is said to have a new bomb ready for hurling into the ranks of ball players' selfishness in his organization. It was learned last night that the league's executive was about to issue a circular edict which would either stop all players from writing expert opinions for newspapers or stop their salaries.

"It is not the intention to infringe upon the rights of players," said Johnson, "but alleged expert criticism and ball playing do not mix. I would not mind so much if the players themselves wrote the stuff which appears in the newspapers throughout the land, but in the great majority of cases, the players never see stories to which their names are appended until after they have been printed."

"These writings frequently have been an injury to the league, and if it can be done—and I think it can—no American League player will be allowed to write these criticisms in the near future."

that he believed that it would be the means of reducing drunkenness and of protecting people against those who were in the habit of becoming intoxicated.

Mr. Nason of Nashua opposed the bill in its present form, saying that he believed that the clause pertaining to liquor in the home should be amended. Mr. Callahan of Keene took the same view of the matter.

The bill was finally tabled and will be re-submitted with amendments.

Attorney R. Arthur Taggart of Manchester was proposed as the candidate of the Republican party for U. S. senator at the conference held in Parish hall, previous to the house session, by Representative Washon of Nashua.

CANADA NAVAL BILL BLOCKED

Ottawa, Ont.—The Liberals are still strenuously obstructing the passage of the naval contribution bill. The third day's continuous battle found only a quorum of Commons present and the House has apparently resigned itself to remain in session until Saturday midnight.

The speeches delivered during the session last night emphasized the fact that the opposition will oppose the measure to a finish.

LOSS OF LIFE GREATER THAN ESTIMATED

Berlin, March 6.—The total number of German bluejackets and Naval officers killed as the result of the ramming of torpedo boat destroyer S-178 by the York off Heligoland was greater than at first supposed.

The official death list issued by the Admiralty today shows that two officers and 69 men perished, not, however, by drowning, but because most of them were frozen to death while clinging to loose spars after their vessel had sunk.

A detailed account of the disaster was published by the Admiralty this morning, in which it is stated that the destroyer, while crossing the bows of the York, became unmanageable, owing to terrific seas and was cut in two by the bigger vessel, which was going at full speed.

The storm made the rescue of the men almost impossible, and many of the corpses were not picked up until this morning.

THE NEW NICKEL

There is no lack of art on the new nickel. Many an art collection has less. In fact art has been crowded upon it with a profusion of expenditure, not infrequently characterized by government methods, with a result, overflows the borders and overflows the room for the things that are commonly regarded as essential to coins. The raising buffalo which has to keep him off of the nickel is a masterpiece of art that is alleged to be "five cents" when closely examined. With the least abrasion the words will disappear as will also the even more microscopic date that is gradually allowed a pin point of space on the other side.

But who goes for the head of the buffalo? The chin whiskers suggest that it may have been Joe Cannon, or perhaps Uncle Sam himself; but some critics say that it is meant to represent one of the patriarchs of Old Testament days. The Indian, made from "an inexpressible hogfishness" in crowding "liberty" and the date into almost invisible proportions in a grim old warrior of strength and character. In all respects artistic and symbolic, he is a refreshing contrast to the insipid young lady with whom tucked in her chin, who has long faced us from the deposed nickel. It is said that somewhere on the new coin there is the initial letter, or perhaps the name of the artist. But it is even smaller than the date or the denomination, and to call attention to it the artist or his press agent will have to start an agitation to have it removed—as was done when the Lincoln cent appeared three years ago.

On the whole the new coin has far more than five cents worth of art on it, but nobody will refuse to accept it on that score. It is suggestive of so many more ambitious things than a coin of small denomination that the inclination to save it may result, for a time, at least, in a desirable spirit of economy among those who commonly forget that enough nickels make a fortune.—Boston Herald.

MORPHIA BULLET STYLED HUMANE

Designed to Rob War of Terrors and Put Grizzly Bears to Sleep.

The painless blowing off of one's arms during war time; the humane shooting of wild game on hunting expeditions and the simple operation of using the specially prepared bullet into the head of a fleeing burglar, to have him run a few yards farther and then go off into peaceful slumber, is what a Pittsburgh scientist hopes for a medically treated bullet with which he is experimenting. He hopes to have the United States government adopt the bullet for any use. He is trying to get the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to recognize its merits, and then induce sportsmen to adopt it. He later will give the police chiefs of the country a few boxes to experiment with.

The new compound "The morphia bullet," the invention of Alexander F. Humphrey. Experiments are being conducted by a committee of army officers, police officials and sportsmen. It is considered alike humane in warfare and deadly in hunting big game. In self-defense it provides the sportsman with all the advantage of an anesthetic.

In his sleep-producing missile, Humphrey uses a minute particle of morphia. The drug is carried off in tiny wells in the steel jacket of the regulation army bullet. Humphrey claims that it in no wise interferes with the effectiveness of the missile. The slight indentation in the steel jacket, he says, causes no splintering when it comes in contact with the bone. The wound of the narcotic bullet according to his theory, does not differ from that caused by the regulation bullets now used in the approved army cartridges. No deleterious effects will follow the unique administration of the drug.

The soldier, receiving a slight flesh wound from the new bullet fights no more that day; he calmly stretches himself on the ground and goes to sleep. The man receiving a serious wound suffers no agony, as the narcotic from the bullet is absorbed by his system and he is insensible to pain before he reaches the hospital. The man whose wound is mortal sleeps away his last hours, thus doing away with most of the battlefield horror. The fleeing burglar is shot in the arm, runs forward a short distance, stretches himself on the sidewalk, and all the policeman has to do is to summon an ambulance and haul him away.

The big game hunters, Humphrey says will feel no fear of a counter-stroke from a wounded tiger, lion or grizzly bear. Although the bullet may make but a slight wound, the game is as good as bagged, once it is struck. Technical World Magazine.

FAST MAIL RUN BACK IN 1860.

"Joe" Lino Made Mark in Missouri That Has Stood Road for the Years Since.

It became a matter of broken through her coming dearest high importance to succeed, on the trial flowers. New joys, new hopes, fulfilled in earth. From the Mississippi to the Missouri the mail from the East was to come over the Hannibal & St. Joe, a Northern Missouri road, which had been completed Feb. 12, 1869. The test mail run was made April 3, 1869.

The best engineer, the best engine and a specially prepared mail car, were selected to carry the train to the waiting rider at St. Joseph.

"Instructions?" asked Add Clark as he climbed up the gangway of the "Missouri" at Hannibal, the morning of the run.

And J. P. K. Hayward, the general superintendent, responded: "You are to make a record that will stand 50 years."

It was said in a tone Napoleon might have used at Austerlitz: "Chasseurs! Take for me your Austrian battery!"

Engineer and soldier, the danger was equal. The rails were light and the locomotive was not always even. April is always a capricious month in Missouri—rain, sunshine and high winds, with mud all the time. The track was not ballasted. As a precautionary measure, George H. Davis, the trainmaster, issued orders that all switches were to be applied securely and no train was to be allowed on the main line within an hour of the fast mail's time. Fast agents at Macen and Moersville were instructed to get ready to load up the tugger with wood "so as not to occasion any delay what-so-ever."

L. L. Coleman, agent at Macen, obeyed instructions in this way: He calculated how many armloads of wood he would take, and then had as many men standing on a specially prepared platform, so when the train "halted," each man emptied his arms and the train scouted along.

It is 205 miles from Hannibal to St. Joseph, and the run was made in a little more than four hours, or about the rate of 50 miles an hour. No sustained run across the state on the "Joe" line has been made in shorter time.

LOCAL DRUGGIST A DIRECTOR

Mutual Co. of Worcester Incorporated Under Massachusetts Laws.

Worcester, March 6.—Mutual Drug Company of this city has been incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, with a capital stock of $200,000 to manufacture and sell drugs at wholesale, and it plans to erect a factory to carry on a business all over the United States. The site and details have not been determined, though it is proposed to start as soon as possible.

Its officers are: President, Samuel P. Nickells; treasurer, Henry L. Green; directors, the president and treasurer, and Benjamin Green, Portsmouth, N. H. The president of the new company is general manager of the Independent Pharmaceutical Company, 9 May street, while the treasurer is president of the corporation that bears his name at 430 Main street. The third director is a druggist, carrying on a retail business at Portsmouth.

BASS IN FIRST DIVISION

Planchard, N. C., March 6.—Walter J. Travis of Garden City, former international champion, J. Warren Cochran of the Baltimore Country Club, C. W. Bass, New Hampshire champion, and John E. Porter of Oakmont won places in the first division of the ninth annual spring golf tournament today. Travis was from P. W. Whittemore, former Massachusetts champion; Cochran from A. A. Stager of Chicago, Bass from G. T. Gregg of Oakmont and Porter from Henry C. Fowles of Oakmont.

SMELT AND LOBSTER BILLS SHOULD HAVE BEEN PASSED

It was with considerable regret that the smelt fishermen of this section and in fact all lovers of that very fine fish, read that the bill of the Fish and Game Committee introduced by Representative Katswiler, had been killed. This bill would have gone away with the smelt and above Great Bay, as the law now allows above Adams Point.

For years an effort has been made to do away with this method of catching fish, but the fishermen around Newmarket and Exeter had the decision of Col. Elwell of Exeter and Dr. Morse of Newmarket and the bill was killed. For years the smelts have been getting scarce in Great Bay and the reason may be found in this law which permits the wholesale slaughter of the fish, with nets above Adams Point and the restriction of the use of hand lines out in the bay where the nets would not do half the damage.

The smelts like a lot of other salt water fish seek fresh water in spawning in the spring of the year anywhere from the middle of February they school up in the rivers. It is while they are schooling in this fashion that they are caught in great quantities with nets, above Adams Point and this of course in time has had its effect and the fish are getting fewer and fewer. The fishermen who use nets make hauls of several hundred pounds every day and this includes the very small fish as well as the large ones. In the meanwhile the smelt fishermen out in the bay working a full day may possibly get ten pounds and more likely a pound or less.

Another bill of local interest which was attached to the smelt bill and met a fair fate, was a bill to make the length of a marketable lobster at nine inches instead of ten as it is now. This is the law in Massachusetts and it is working out much more satisfactory than the ten inch law in this state. Government experts have agreed that it is of more importance to save the sea lobsters and to allow the sale of the lobsters over nine inches. At the present time the government have agents everywhere who purchase the sea lobsters at the market price from the fishermen and the fishermen are very willing to sell to the government. As a result millions of lobster fry are yearly distributed along the coast.

TO MEET BRITISH TACTICS

Government Plans to Introduce Bill Making Removal of Prisoners to Hospital Possible, with Recommendation When Health is Restored—Mrs. Pankhurst Breaks Down.

London, March 6.—It is understood that the Government has decided to introduce two bills in Parliament at an early date as possible, dealing with the suffragette difficulty. The first will empower the Home Secretary to exercise the same licensing control over persons committed to prison as he now does over convicts. Thus a suffragette prisoner adopting the hunger strike would be sent to a hospital or a home until her health had been restored and would then be recommitted to prison. This method would be repeated until the prisoner had served the full term, in which the time out on license would not be counted. The second bill will provide a better procedure for recovering fines and damages from suffragettes convicted of attacks on property and will otherwise modify the criminal law in the desired direction.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the suffragettes has broken down completely. She has cancelled all her engagements and has gone to the country for a rest. This announcement ment was made at a suffragette meeting at Hampstead, where Mrs. Pankhurst was scheduled to speak. "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond took her place. Mrs. Drummond no sooner began talking than a group of students let loose quantities of snuff starting everybody to sneezing. A lively scuffle ensued between the attendants and the distributors. Chairs were broken, blows were exchanged and black eyes and bruises were plentiful.

During a lull in the disorder Mrs. Drummond advised all the municipal electors to vote against the London County Council progressive candidates as a protest against the conduct of the Right Hon. John Burns, president of the Local Government Board who has been denouncing the suffragettes as tyrannical and their militant efforts as blackguardian. John Burns spoke at a meeting at Islington. While snarls were effecting two disturbing made supporters of the suffragettes. Mr. Burns said that such disturbances were the result of the "stuff" the news papers had published.

Tells Consumptives How He Got Well

Tuberculous is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Undoubtedly, some persons are benefited in this way, but the appropriate remedy for Consumptives is Eckman's Alternative. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight, eat wholesome nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air—then, to the sensible things of diet, exercise, and the tonic and beneficial effects of Eckman's Alternative, find what it did in this case:

"I began in January, 1908, was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, one of the leading practitioners, said that it was lung trouble. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. The doctors said I would not gain in weight as long as I stayed in the house; but I kept on working and prayed each day that I might get well. I believe my prayers were answered for Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Importers, 205 to 214 Market street, Wilmington, Del.), had heard of a remedy called Eckman's Alternative that had done good for a great many consumptives. I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using not only myself, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I finally believe Eckman's Alternative saved my life. I sent my affliction letter to the State Board of Health to be examined for tuberculosis, and I have never found my mother died from consumption when I was about two years old.

"I make this statement so that others may learn of the wonderful merits of Eckman's Alternative. I regard my recovery as being miraculous."

(Signed) ALFRED J. AS, SQUIRE.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in emphysema, the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists and in Portsmouth by Benjamin Green.

TWO NEW POLICE
COMMISSIONERS NAMED

Frank E. Leavitt and Michael J.
Griffin and the Men Chosen

At the meeting of the governor and council on Thursday, two new members of the board of police commissioners for the city were appointed.
The new appointees are Frank E.
Leavitt appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Morris H. Poye, and Michael J. Griffin to succeed Percy H. Locke. Mr. Leavitt enters upon his new duties as police commissioner at once, while Mr. Griffin does not begin his duties until April 2.

When Police Commissioner Dimick resigned recently Mr. Leavitt was the choice of the citizens' committee for the vacancy, but Governor Hussey council refused to confirm him and Mr.
Locke was appointed and confirmed.
Mr. Leavitt is manager of the wholesale grocery house of the Silas Pierce Co. in this city and is a man held in high esteem by the community.

The other new member of the commission, Michael J. Griffin, needs no introduction to the citizens of Portsmouth, as he has been engaged in business here for many years. He is a Democrat and has served in both the common council and board of aldermen. He also has served as street commissioner. As a business man, Mr. Griffin is highly regarded and will without make a valuable member of the police commission.

For the first time since the commission was created the Republican party is without representation on it, the present composition of the board being two Democrats and a Progressive.

NAVY YARD NEWS

Will Serve Papers Saturday

Extradition papers from the Government of Maine and New Hampshire calling for the arrest of Corporal
"Butcher" of the marine guard wanted by the local police, will be served on Saturday morning by Deputy Sheriff Morris Leach of Eliot, who will turn the man over to the custody of Sheriff Spence of this city. He will be arraigned at once charged with breach of watches from the pawn shop of Samuel Danenberg on Pen-hallow street.

Ordered to Norfolk

Orders received from the department today direct the transfer of civil engineer L. E. Gregory of the public works at this yard to Norfolk to replace Civil Engineer Leonard M. Cox who has been transferred to Alaska in special duty. The moving of Engineer Gregory from this station is to be regretted and it is hoped that successors may be revoked. If ever a man of his ability was needed here it is at the present time when a great amount of work is about to start in this department, including the $125,000 bridge in Kittery, the big water intake in the power plant, the completion of the $125,000 quay wall, the extension of the foundry and many other improvements of a minor nature. The best work in the line of improvements at this station in a period of 20 years has been carried out under his supervision. It is the general opinion of the official force as well as the civil employees of this station that he should be allowed to complete the good work that he has begun.

ones for the organization.

OBITUARY

Howard Stowe Laskey

Howard Stowe Laskey aged 31 years died at his home on River avenue, this Friday morning after a short illness. He was a native of this city, the son of the late Baron Stowe Laskey.
His education was gained in the public schools of his native town. He was for a number of years engaged in the grocery business on Pleasant street. Of late years up to the time of his last illness he was in the employ of Henry P. Payne. By his obligating manner Mr. Laskey made friends with all whom he came in contact with, and his death will be deeply regretted by a large circle of acquaintances.
